SHELF LIFE

Tractor Beverages are good for six days in the recommended bottles after spending three days in a bubbler. Beverages are good for nine days if filling bottles immediately after mixing concentrates with water. All beverages should be labeled according to the appropriate shelf life date.

PREPARING THE BOTTLES

Center the labels on the bottle and circle the expiration month and date on the back of the bottle. To fill the bottles, dispense the remaining product from your bubbler after three days and place the bottles in the refrigerator. Alternatively, you can make batches of product specifically for the bottles and fill them immediately if you have a high demand for bottles. After filling the bottle, apply downward pressure on the cap and twist until you feel the cap click. This will ensure the bottle is accurately sealed and will not leak.

A FEW REMINDERS

- Ensure "First In, First Out" is being utilized with the bottles in your refrigerator.
- When preparing a Specialty Drink for the bubblers, mark the date it needs to be bottled by (three days after preparation).
